Description :

Prsentation de l'diteurFluent in French NOW is an essential how-to-guide for anybody interested in learning or improving their French. It's written by John Elkhoury, the author of the ever-popular French learning website, FrenchCrazy.com. Learning any language (including French) requires time. By guiding you towards better French-learning techniques, you will become more efficient with that time. This book does not contain long lists of vocabulary or practice exercises, if that's what you seek then there are plenty of other resources out there. Here we'll talk about: The realistic and ideal ways to attain French fluency How to increase your French speaking, reading, and vocabulary capabilities How to make French friends and keep them for the long haul How to up your reading skills Things that need to be tackled as an adult learner Common pitfalls when learning French How to maximize classroom learning Many personal stories and accounts to help illustrate these concepts And much more... Everything in this book contains tips and things I wish I knew when I first started learning French many years ago. Now I'm fluent in French and living in France. Why don't you accomplish the same feat? Let's tackle your French learning together.
